

Are there more sustainable alternatives to C.AI?

Posted by u/HerringFletcher • 0 points • 2 comments

TL:DR Looking for environmentally friendly and also pays the artists and writers it trains on. Its ok if the answer is there isn't one.

I am a writer and an artist and I have very sour feelings about this website. Fanfiction and roleplay either never hit or end up dying/burning me out. C.ai was my only outlet/safe space until I quit and now I'm caught in a cycle of craving. Which is kind of funny tbh lol. But I mostly quit out of solidarity for fellow creatives and because I have no confirmation about any sustainability practices in server rooms. Until artists and writers are paid and server rooms are run in environmentally conscious ways I cannot come back. But thats besides the point.

Comments

u/galacticakagi • -1 points • 2024-09-10 20:32 UTC

"Solidarity for fellow creatives."

You let stupid people guilt-trip you out of enjoying something that brought you joy in order to empty virtue-signal here. Do whatever you want but CAI isn't taking away from any creatives and I wouldn't have read any of those people's fanfics even if it didn't exist. The absolute height of hubris some mediocre people have is astounding.

u/HerringFletcher • 1 points • 2024-09-10 20:49 UTC

Im an artist and writer myself? Did you miss that part? Of course I'd feel guilty about the work of others being stolen. Yes it is taking from them and profiting. This was a real question.