

The fact that China's Deepseek managed to operate with 1/30th of ChatGPT's energy rate proves that Joe Biden could've forced Sam Altman to reduce energy consumption usage on OpenAI but didn't!

America once again destroyed the climate for nothing!

Yea man, if they had used existing heat pump tech to cool AI infrastructure, they could operate without waste water and a controlled heat source that could be repurposed. Instead, corporations burning the world to make line go up.

Seriously, could've built these facilities to be SO MUCH more efficient, for just a fraction more. But short term minuscule profits are more important than sustainability and the survivability of our planet.

American tech companies couldn't innovate a fart in an outhouse. They only seek to insert themselves into some existing process as a rent seeking middleman

I can imagine DeepSeek is better at translating between Chinese and English than ChatGPT, which is very convenient timing for being in REDnote

Sam Altman does not enjoy spending tons of money on electricity unnecessarily. Are you stupid?

Any energy saved goes back into feeding the ~infinite scale they want. Already they need dedicated nuclear plants that aren't built yet.

Do we know those efficiency claims are real yet? Not hating, just want confirmation. This will fuck over the American AI companies if true lmao

Two confirmation sources are the Nvidia cards they use, which are a bit 'older' and use a lot less energy. I don't remember the exact models, the Q800 instead of the Q1000 or something like that?

The second source is western benchmark tests that confirmed it. Not sure how they did it but it should be sufficient for anyone questioning it to tell them it was confirmed independently in the west... all hail the holy think tank. Here's one chart:
