

The AI power waste issue over AI generated art is just a flimsy excuse at legitimizing a subjective opinion

Posted by u/GrabEmByTheGraboid • 0 points • 10 comments

They realized no one cares when they cry "wahhh AI art bad", so now they have to bring up the bogus point about it wasting tons of power and CO2 emissions. That may be true for some AI algorithms, but stable diffusion, the algorithm behind AI generated art isn't that bad. I can run it on my laptop ffs.

Quit trying to give your shitty opinions more weight by appealing to global warming scare tactics.

Comments

u/EverythingIsSound • 3 points • 2025-04-23 00:05 UTC

Ehh, the beef industry is infinitely worse than AI in terms of emissions.

I just think AI is low effort, and thankfully uncopyrightable. It's a cool tool to use, however using it to make art to make a profit is...so lazy. You can't actually have some integrity to learn a craft? I think that's what it boils down to. If you use AI art in a product, and it's not satire, you lack integrity and probably don't deserve credibility.

u/GrabEmByTheGraboid • -1 points • 2025-04-23 00:25 UTC

>to make a profit is...so lazy

Were we supposed to be taking the hard path to earning profits?

u/EverythingIsSound • 1 points • 2025-04-23 02:32 UTC

If you have any integrity or pride in yourself. If you're greedy just say that out in the open instead of making "art"

u/GrabEmByTheGraboid • 1 points • 2025-04-23 02:34 UTC

Why? Why would I arbitrarily limit myself like that? That's so dumb. If I was gonna make AI generated art I would definitely call it art unless the law prevented me.

u/EverythingIsSound • 1 points • 2025-04-23 03:38 UTC

You can call it whatever you like, I just would hope you'd have a little artistic integrity. Like even the smallest amount to make your own work. AI can't even get clocks right.

u/squid_head_ • 2 points • 2025-04-23 01:15 UTC

Maybe just don't make a profit off of something that steals other people's art without consent from the artists?

u/GrabEmByTheGraboid • -1 points • 2025-04-23 01:21 UTC

Maybe just do whatever you want to do.

u/squid_head_ • 1 points • 2025-04-23 01:23 UTC

Its not like anyone's stopping you. So yeah, do what you want.

u/SimoWilliams_137 • 2 points • 2025-04-22 22:22 UTC

How is it a bogus claim?

Do you have any actual data?

Or just, like, your vibes, man?

u/BurnIt_4 • 3 points • 2025-04-22 22:28 UTC

The bogus claim is based on the idea that right now you can download a powerful AI art generator that works offline and run it on a i7 laptop just fine. The biggest counter is virtually all art is created with computers now, either by humans or AI. But humans produce 310–2900 times MORE CO2e compared to an AI program generating art. Yes you read that correctly. AI art does create CO2, BUT FAR LESS than humans do if they do the job themselves. That is the nail in the coffin, discussion over, AI saves the planet doesn't hurt it so new argument, door closed, argument right there haha.

u/BurnIt_4 • 3 points • 2025-04-22 22:28 UTC

O and here is the scientific peer reviewed study that found that.

https://www.nature.com/articles/s41598-024-54271-x#:~:text=AI%20image%20creation%20\(via%20DALL,to%20support%20humans%20making%20images.

u/SimoWilliams_137 • 0 points • 2025-04-22 23:48 UTC

But that's on a per-unit basis. It doesn't seem like that's enough to entirely defeat the claim.

u/AutoModerator • 1 points • 2025-04-22 22:08 UTC

Below is an archived copy of the above post:

They realized no one cares when they cry "wahhhh AI art bad", so now they have to bring up the bogus point about it wasting tons of power and CO2 emissions. That may be true for some AI algorithms, but stable diffusion, the algorithm behind AI generated art isn't that bad. I can run it on my laptop ffs.

Quit trying to give your shitty opinions more weight by appealing to global warming scare tactics.

I am a bot, and this action was performed automatically. Please [contact the moderators of this subreddit] (/message/compose/?to=/r/TrueUnpopularOpinion) if you have any questions or concerns.