

r/Futurology

AI is devouring energy like crazy!! How are you guys not worried?!

Posted by u/Thunyasilps • 0 points • 757 comments

We all know AI is growing really fast, and it is not at all good for the environment. I know something needs to be done here, and stopping the use of AI is not an option.

Are you concerned? What do you think is the solution to this?

I am a developer. So, I am curious if there is anything I can build to help with this.

Comments

u/Fantastic_Zucchini_3 • 1 points • 2025-11-05 16:25 UTC

I see the increased energy consumption as taking Earth a notch up in the Kardashev scale. The consumption is a sign of evolution. The better the AI gets, the better everything else becomes, including new sources of energy, improving efficiency in existing grids, smarter ways of power distribution. If done right, the result should eventually be a net positive

u/Temporary-Rough282 • 1 points • 2025-08-04 14:11 UTC

I'm very worried and i haven't used AI because of this, ever.

u/[deleted] • 1 points • 2025-07-09 04:58 UTC

[removed]

u/[deleted] • 1 points • 2025-06-10 07:42 UTC

[removed]