

Since my last post was just a bit too subtle for the cavemen: if you concerned about environmental impact of AI to the point of yelling at and bullying anyone who uses it, why you no put the same energy towards other sources of environmental destruction? I don't see you in other environmental subs?

Posted by u/ChompyRiley • 0 points • 54 comments

You could yell and scream at oil and gas companies. Or chemical production factories. Or how crypto uses ten times the energy and waste that AI ever could? Or people who use artificial fertilizers and pesticides. Or the way plastics, cars, and iphones are made. There's a lot of environmental destruction going on, but I only see you 'anti bros' yapping about AI. Why not yap about some of the other stuff too? Or do you not care about the environment and just need an excuse to bully and harass anyone who thinks different from you, and the other causes require too much commitment to actually fixing stuff?

Comments

u/SunriseFlare • 1 points • 2025-06-01 14:36 UTC

Ecoterrorism generally gets you shot these days

u/ChompyRiley • 1 points • 2025-06-01 14:38 UTC

...When did I say people should be ecoterrorists? I'm just saying 'turn this Anti-AI hate into hate for the stuff that's actually wrecking the planet at a much faster rate than AI ever will'

u/SunriseFlare • 1 points • 2025-06-01 14:41 UTC

You didn't, I did lol

Well not anymore, turns up blowing pipelines doesn't work as well anymore, they got sensors down the entire line these days, gotta get the derrick somehow

u/SolidCake • 2 points • 2025-05-31 22:00 UTC

Did yall know that running a leafblower for 30 minutes pollutes as much as an f-150 raptor driving 3,900 miles? Can we like , actually ban 2 stroke

u/[deleted] • 1 points • 2025-05-31 21:03 UTC

[removed]

u/MagicEater06 • 0 points • 2025-05-31 21:01 UTC

That's because you're not in them, dipshit. You don't see me talk about the Coke brothers funding pro-oil propaganda and lobbying the government with Rupert Murdoch. You don't see me talk about corporate capture of the EPA. You don't see me hating on Bill Clinton for betraying Liberal economic policy for the GOP. You don't hear me talking about how awful in literally every way the Reagan presidency was. You don't hear me talk about factory meat farming and the plots of land dedicated to their feed. You don't hear me talking about lobbying, leading to subsidizing the corn and dairy industries. You don't hear me talking about overstressed water tables in Colorado.

You don't hear shit because you're not listening. And when you do listen, you deny it. Don't pretend we're the hypocrites for complaining about the 100th thing when you ignored the last 99. Go fuck yourself. Don't even pretend this is a principled stance you're taking with a moral high ground because that never belonged to you. Fuck outta here, with your disingenuous ass.

u/MagicEater06 • 0 points • 2025-05-31 21:05 UTC

And let's not even get started on how tech bros and privatization killed the train industry here in America! I'm autistic and on Reddit: you know I love trains!

u/ChompyRiley • 2 points • 2025-05-31 21:30 UTC

Assuming you're not being sarcastic, I agree. I live in the KCMO area, right near Union Station. When I used to work in the city, I'd go down to watch the trains. I'm so sad that we don't have more trains in the US, I'd probably never leave.

u/MagicEater06 • 1 points • 2025-05-31 21:35 UTC

You remember how California was gonna build high speed rail, before Elon Musk, back before it was widely known that he was an idiot grifter, promised to build hyperloops instead? So the billions of dollars was reassigned away from that bit of public works, and then nothing happened and high-speed rail in CA fucking died? Yes, I'm still bitter that Musk personally killed my former State getting high speed rail.

u/ChompyRiley • 2 points • 2025-05-31 21:41 UTC

!gif

u/MagicEater06 • 1 points • 2025-05-31 21:47 UTC

Regardless of how we feel about everything else, TRAIN BROS UNITE!

!gif

u/ChompyRiley
• 2 points
• 2025-05-31 21:48 UTC

Exactly.
Love of trains
transcends
all other boundaries.