

Neo-Luddites: "AI IS BAD FOR THE ENVIRONMENT!" Also Neo-Luddites: "Well I'm not going to talk about Crypto, oil/fossil fuels, meat production, factories, or anything else even though those are just as bad. those subreddits don't exist to me."

They could yell and scream at oil and gas companies. Or chemical production factories. Or how crypto uses ten times the energy and waste that AI ever could? Or people who use artificial fertilizers and pesticides. Or the way plastics, cars, and iphones are made. There's a lot of environmental destruction going on, but I only see those 'anti bros' yapping about AI. Why not yap about some of the other stuff too? Or do they not care about the environment and just need an excuse to bully and harass anyone who thinks different from them, and the other causes require too much commitment to actually fixing stuff?

Temu, do temu! (shien, etc) slave labour, skirts western import regulation, MASSIVE environmental impact, cheap goods with ingrained obsolescence, sells knock offs (do people understand that objects are made by artists called designers?) etc etc etc at the end of the day, don't talk to me about ethics if you shop on temu.

This is textbook whataboutism.

Crypto especially is highly rejected by antis. While the point has faded, people were constantly comparing generative AI as the new tech fad a la Crypto and NFTs, specifically to discount it.

even for people who do care about the other stuff; no ethical consumption under capitalism, the common person has barely any environmental impact, pollution is systemic you're making up the idea that people only care about one thing.

Yeah crypto definitely got the same backlash.

Admittedly that was underneath the backlash for the tones of crypto scams so op may have missed it.
