

No... AI is not damaging the environment. (Rant)

Posted by u/Cali4our • 0 points • 222 comments

Basically the title. The argument I've been saying and somehow fed up to Anti's is "it damages the environment." Argument.

And whenever I ask them "how does it damage the environment" the answers always goes between;

1. It's wasting electricity.
2. It's using water to cool off the servers, wasting water.

First of all, there's millions of computers and servers that isn't associates with AI and supplies servers of dead sites and somehow still running to this day. There is million of houses that runs lightbulbs non-stop for some reason. Shops that never shuts their neon signs and backlight signs. There is many people buying useless stuff that needs constant electricity to run (such as toys, mechanical fidget toys and etc that you can see on asmr vids). And so many more. If you wanna be sensitive about wasting electricity then you should really focus on bigger and real problems. And i genuinely don't consider something is getting "wasted" if its being used.

And second... Really? Cars are water cooled, there are many PC's that is water cooled and so on. Again, same thing as the first one. If you really wanna be sensitive about water being wasted then focus on people running their tap water running without care in the world, water being poured down or used for "YouTube entertainment" video. Plastics being thrown to sea's and forming that plastic island. And so on.

Long story short, AI is not the one who ruins the environment. It's you doing it. And instead of focusing on these real problems you blame a Tool, and AI users for generating AI art as a hobby that doesn't hurt anyone at all.

Comments

u/CandidateEmergency63 • 1 points • 2026-04-10 17:44 UTC

Yes, humans are foolishly creating their own (and their environment's) self-destruction by creating these AI data centers.

u/CorrectDimension381 • 1 points • 2026-03-31 23:49 UTC

idk while ai isn't great for the environment it's much better than lets say the meat industry. I think ppl just want to point fingers bc it's easier to say "ai and robots are bad" than "stop eating meat"

u/Humble-Swimmer-651 • 1 points • 2026-03-18 18:30 UTC

let's not stereotype everyone. AI is still a problem regardless of other wastages. You can't compare a negative with another negative hoping for it to cancel out. We as humans should be taking care of our earth every way possible, including not investing in fast fashion, wasting less water food and everything that's useful to us. AI is still always going to be bad no matter how much you try and justify it, it'll take the job of artists if we're going at the rate we are. And earth without art is just a rock.

u/ChefHyena • 1 points • 2026-02-24 14:23 UTC

AI is damaging the environment cus it's powered by greenhouse gasses. We do not renew the water either.

u/Cali4our • 1 points • 2026-02-28 06:20 UTC

AI is only powered by electricity and cooled down by water which It's all on a closed loop. So no, technically its not even wasting water.

u/Martybc3 • 1 points • 2026-02-06 15:51 UTC

AI is garbage and will destroy society

u/Cali4our • 1 points • 2026-02-06 16:20 UTC

No