

i feel like the ultimate argument against ai is just how much power it requires. like it's not making anything easier you're just outsourcing things to power plant workers and server farms

Posted by u/cutieMoP • 0 points • 11 comments and who would want to replace the process of making art with someone else shoveling coal into a furnace??? like genuinely what's convenient for you is hemorrhaging billions worth of resources from the globe and that's causing material changes for the worse. the heatwave in europe just this week? yeah they're getting more frequent and more intense. wildfires in the US? yeah those are way crazier these days. and we're barely getting snow in the winter now and ai is speeding up this whole climate disaster also ai images look like garbage and the writing ain't shit

Comments

u/DaysOfAnAdventurer • 1 points • 2025-07-05 20:51 UTC

AI is just kinda depressing tbh

I wanted to do something like writing as my profession. AI does it better and is only getting better, so why would I pursue a career in a profession that will likely suffer in the upcoming years? AI was an invention that could've revolutionized accessibility for those with disabilities but instead we're using it to draw soulless "art" and write papers for us out of pure laziness.

u/cutieMoP • 1 points • 2025-07-05 20:53 UTC

ai is really not all that lmao and its only getting worse because it's starting to train on its own slop

u/Annual_Rush_2026 • 1 points • 2025-07-05 20:59 UTC

Where are you getting this info from?

u/cutieMoP • 1 points • 2025-07-05 21:02 UTC

ai companies themselves have said they're running out of training data to steal and the internet is getting filled with ai

u/globularamphora • 1 points • 2025-07-05 20:51 UTC hopefully the gulf stream collapses as they said it would and england can finally get real snow again

u/Annual_Rush_2026 • 2 points • 2025-07-05 20:50 UTC

Even though your argument is fundamentally flawed, we should stop fossil fuels. Preach nuclear, not stupid shit like this

u/cutieMoP • 1 points • 2025-07-05 20:54 UTC

how is my argument flawed please do point the flaws out to me

u/Annual_Rush_2026 • 1 points • 2025-07-05 20:56 UTC

Do some research

u/cutieMoP • 1 points • 2025-07-05 20:57 UTC

that's not pointing out anything wrong! try again 😊

u/Annual_Rush_2026 • 1 points • 2025-07-05 20:58 UTC

I ain't reading allat 🙏🙏🙏

u/cutieMoP • 1 points • 2025-07-05 21:02 UTC

i see the kind of man you are u/chhunter1234 • 3 points • 2025-07-05 20:46 UTC

*ragebait if I've ever seen it

u/cutieMoP • 1 points • 2025-07-05 20:47 UTC

no im not baiting anything but you're right to be upset bc it's killing us