

Does chatgpt really harm the environment

Posted by u/South-Pipe7153 • 0 points • 8 comments

On tiktok i've been seeing so many people say chatgpt is using alot of water and harming the environment, and i felt guilty cause i used chatgpt often so i stopped but now i wanna use it so can someone informed tell me if chatgpt is harmful and also what choices i can make(going vegan/vegetarian, Picking up trash, using ecosia, ect) to make up for using chatgpt

Uses something like 0.1% of electrical power. The environmental impact of that depends on the generation mix which was heading in the right direction before MAGA.

As to water, it uses it for cooling so the impact depends on what you do with the warm water, and where you get the cold.

Why not ask an AI? maybe a European one.

I really wouldn't bother.

Imagine picking up litter on a beach while at the same time 300 rubbish trucks are dumping rubbish 1 mile up the same beach. You'd look around your little area and think that you did an amazing job and feel that made a difference, but in the grand scheme of things it made no difference at all.

You know how you're gonna solve this? At least for yourself? Use it for things that really mean something to you, not for crap.

Perfect question for ChatGPT. Ask it and destroy another habitat!

Behold, a bunch of people who didn't listen in science class and don't understand how rain works.
