

How do pro AI people feel about the environmental impact of AI?

Posted by u/Dramatic-Sport-6084 • 0 points • 34 comments

Recently saw a news piece about the data center for Elon Musk's AI chat bot. It's built in the center of a poor black neighborhood and has been recorded spewing out disgusting amounts of smog.

How do pro-AI people feel about their work making the air of marginalized people less breathable?

Comments

u/MonSocMatriarchy • 1 points • 2025-07-10 19:56 UTC

I dont know the specific percentage of global warming id begin to worry about the environmental effects of AI but the fact that it can be run locally for less processing power than a video game leads me to believe that its not so much an AI problem as much as it is an industrialization problem.

Also the crimes of Elon go far beyond smog

u/Inside_Anxiety6143 • 3 points • 2025-07-10 19:52 UTC

AI is not the root cause of the climate change problem. The biggest cause is dirty power generation. Power usage will keep increasing whether you curb AI or not, unless you solve the underlying dirty power problem.

u/Inside_Anxiety6143 • 2 points • 2025-07-10 19:47 UTC

How does a data center make smog? A power plant powering it can make smog, but not the data center.

u/PsychologyAdept669 • 3 points • 2025-07-10 19:44 UTC

\>How do pro-AI people feel about their work making the air of marginalized people less breathable?

i feel like you do not care about the marginalized except when it's convenient for you. AI datacenters but not social media, new electronics, new clothes, cars planes bananas chocolate coffee batteries rubber etc. anti AI is to environmentalism as veganism is to universal rights advocacy: convenient

u/Another-Ace-Alt-8270 • 3 points • 2025-07-10 19:42 UTC

Eating steak, wearing clothes, doing digital art, browsing the world wide web, and even producing paper all do similar, if not far greater, amounts of damage to the environment overall. This is not an AI issue. It is an "Our society is unsustainable thanks to the fact that most billionaires right now are cartoon villains" issue.

u/QuidYossarian • 4 points • 2025-07-10 19:21 UTC

Every time the environmental impact is brought up the only numbers I see anyone provide are either conjecture, based on a non peer reviewed paper, or purposely misleading.