

r/aiwars

Do pro -ai people disregard the masses of water waste associated with ai?

Posted by u/Guilty-Pie • • 0 points • 73 comments

It's a fact that masses amount of water are irreparably polluted when cooling ai data centres,

What are pro ai peoples rebuttal to this actual fact?

Comments

u/Inside_Anxiety6143 • 2 points • 2025-07-21 14:55 UTC

Water is recyclable. It isn't like they are dumping toxic chemical into it. Its just to move heat around. Complaining about it makes as much as sense as complaining about how much air ceiling fans waste.

u/antonio_inverness • 2 points • 2025-07-21 13:42 UTC

Wellll... I guess the hysteria left over from crypto had to go somewhere.