

r/datacenter

WA's data center boom fuels tax windfalls - and energy struggles

Posted by u/TheVoltageParkSF • • 0 points • 0 comments

Among Grant County's corn, hay and potato fields, [29 data centers] (<https://www.datacentermap.com/usa/washington/>) have created an unlikely economic boom, helping drive annual property taxes up 1,277% to [$54 million] (https://dor.wa.gov/sites/default/files/2025-07/RecommendedONLY_Findings%20TR_Eco_DevoSubgroup7_24_2025.pdf) over nearly two decades. The town of Quincy, which hosts most of the facilities, has used its share of tax revenue to transform the Eastern Washington community's rural infrastructure — funding everything from a new school, hospital and fire station to plans for a deluxe soccer complex to draw tourists.

Comments