

So what things are worse for the environment than AI?

Posted by u/Awkward-Low-2051 • 0 points • 1 comments

Eating hamburgers? Streaming Netflix? Gaming? Onlyfans? YouTube?

What else?

And why do these fake environmentalists only focus on AI?

Comments

u/[deleted] • 1 points • 2025-10-10 20:07 UTC

[removed]

u/Amethystea • 1 points • 2025-10-02 21:23 UTC

Nonrenewable energy, hell the entire fossil fuel industry...

If we switch to renewables and decarbonized, carbon footprints would nearly evaporate for almost every other industry including data centers.

u/[deleted] • 1 points • 2025-10-01 18:35 UTC

[removed]

u/[deleted] • 1 points • 2025-10-01 11:41 UTC

[removed]

u/seraphinth • 1 points • 2025-10-01 10:25 UTC

Cars:, like even without burning fossil fuels they're still making a lot of brake and tire dust contributing to the majority of microplastic pollution that goes into oceans and people's bodies

u/[deleted] • 1 points • 2025-10-01 08:03 UTC

[removed]

u/Quirky-Complaint-839 • 3 points • 2025-09-30 22:22 UTC

The next impact of my day to day living puts more stress on the environment than my using generative AI to generate images and music on my phone.