

r/artificial

Without Water Because of AI

Posted by u/arsnicotine • 0 points • 10 comments

pls watch and share so we can stop this and help people

Comments

u/Solid_Anxiety8176 • 3 points • 2025-10-14 13:29 UTC

The denigrating comments are foolish. As someone that has seen his childhood home area decimated by unchecked suburban sprawl, tech CEOs using it as a testing playground, and a government that seems to care less and less about the people it represents, I feel this.

But also... We can have advancement of technology without losing resources, but it takes accountability (and it looks more and more like that means regulation). Closed loop water cooling is the next thing, and I doubt it would've happened if it wasn't for the outcry.

You that scream and call bologna are short sighted. You expect to benefit in the future but not now, you expect everything to just work itself out it, without any real evidence that it will.

u/LXVIIIKami • 0 points • 2025-10-14 13:20 UTC

Did she give any reason as to why AI is supposed to be responsible for their water outage? Didn't hear one, not gonna watch again

u/arsnicotine • 2 points • 2025-10-14 13:35 UTC

u don't know how water outages and ai r connected?

u/LXVIIIKami • 1 points • 2025-10-14 14:14 UTC

I doubt anyone does

u/arsnicotine • 1 points • 2025-10-14 14:17 UTC

i genuinely thought it was common knowledge

u/LXVIIIKami • 1 points • 2025-10-14 14:30 UTC

The only thing that would come to mind as "common knowledge" is data centers in rural areas needing a lot of water. That's way different though than saying "we have no water because these people are using AI"

u/arsnicotine • 1 points • 2025-10-14 14:38 UTC

how so? we only have so much freshwater? why would she (and others) be saying they don't have water if they do? (pls don't think i'm being mean lol im autistic)

u/Aggressive_Gene_7561 • 1 points • 2025-10-14 13:15 UTC

Go dig a well. Smh

u/OkInterview3864 • 1 points • 2025-10-14 13:12 UTC

Whaaa?

u/i-am-borg • 6 points • 2025-10-14 13:12 UTC

Its bullshit