

"But the CEOs! The tech bros! The billionaires! The environment!" just because I shared a photo I made with an AI filter that turned my cat into a plush toy and made me laugh. Is it wrong to have fun with this?

Posted by u/mmofrki • 0 points • 24 comments

I got this app called PicsArt that had a trial to use AI filters and I was curious so I took a picture of my cat and ran a filter over it, expecting some weird thing to be output. But it turned her into a wooly type plush and it just made me laugh.

I shared it with a friend and got such a scathing chew-out from them, that you'd think I committed the most atrocious crime in the world.

"You can't use this stuff at all! Don't you know that these COMPANIES are destroying the environment and tech bros are eating it up???"

Meanwhile filters have been around for a decade at this point and they used rudimentary AI. It just wasn't called that then.

I just wanna have fun lol.

Comments

u/RiotNrrd2001 • 1 points • 2025-12-20 22:23 UTC

You just wanna have fun? Then have fun. Are some people going to give you grief about it? Only if you listen to them, and anyone who has a negative opinion about you using AI for personal fun doesn't have an opinion worth listening to.

u/ThrowRA1234567788777 • 1 points • 2025-12-20 22:02 UTC

Ok 👍

u/Long-Band-180 • 1 points • 2025-12-20 08:29 UTC

I personally hate how AI been implemented. It's not as good as stated, it steals, it uses a lot of unnecessary resources, and it's causing a lot of issues where I work becuase it literally cannot do what it's supposed to. Also, due to generative AI causing everyone to be able to generate anything. They like, the value of what it generates is basically nothing. You can make something you like, but everyone else can just be like "cool, I'll generate something I like" and ignore what you generated, because it's valueless to anyone but the one who generated it. This is why AI channels don't take off well. They can get views occasionally for something silly, but overall they get low views compared to subscribers due to most people who support AI just generate what they like and have no need to consume another person's generated content.

That ALL SAID that basically makes generating an image just to show a friend or to get ideas really the only real valuable use case. IMO you're fine and they're overreacting because they don't understand the situation. Also, honestly we just need to get more regulations around AI and what they can use (both resources and what it can learn on) and it can be ethical. We're just not doing that. That's not a reason to hate advanced programs that can imitate intelligence when they're really just running man editing program by translating your words to commands, it's a reason to hate our lawmakers.

u/Polyphonic_Pirate • 1 points • 2025-12-19 22:26 UTC

Someone on Twitter accused me of supporting slavery because I told him companies weren't going to stop using AI if it made their work flows faster and cheaper. Not sure how to argue with that kind of genius.

u/SirDoofusMcDingbat • 2 points • 2025-12-19 17:58 UTC

No, it's not wrong to have fun with that. But that doesn't mean we don't have good reason to be worried about what these massive corpos are going to do with their new tools.

u/mmoFrki • 1 points • 2025-12-19 18:49 UTC

It's been that way since the internet was first widely used. They had movies about how "scary" it was, like The Net and movies of how hackers could make people's lives hell.

u/Nightsheade • 2 points • 2025-12-19 17:20 UTC

But have you ever considered that you could learn how to make a plush toy and enjoy the experience of doing so? I'm sure you have a unique style that you could bring to the table, and if you just gave it a try and picked up a sewing needle, you'd see how much fun it can be and wouldn't need AI at all. ✨

u/mmoFrki • 1 points • 2025-12-19 17:21 UTC

I've done some of them crochet kits. They're cool.

u/RoyalCheesecake8687 • 2 points • 2025-12-19 17:11 UTC

If there were no Billionaires

They would say "but the evil millionaires"

There can never be a society where one group of people who innovate or are incharge don't hold a large sum of capital of power.

u/No-Opportunity5353 • 7 points • 2025-12-19 16:40 UTC

In before enlightened antis descent from heaven, and in their infinite grace allow to use it for fun and memes ONLY, but forbid you to ever use it for business because it's "unethical".

Never mind that literally everyone uses it for work in every field, and antis don't realize that because they're unemployed, terminally online, and stuck in a feedback loop.

u/RoyalCheesecake8687 • 0 points • 2025-12-19 17:11 UTC

I genuinely believe most of them don't have jobs

u/No-Opportunity5353 • 0 points • 2025-12-19 18:19 UTC

They genuinely don't. Most of them are teens and college students who only know about the world via extremely limited social media bubbles. Their content creators told them "AI bad" for engagement, so know that's all they know. Meanwhile, in the actual world, everyone uses AI for work.

Those kids are going to have a very hard time adjusting when they grow up and have to get a job.

u/SirDoofusMcDingbat • -1 points • 2025-12-19 18:00 UTC

I stg some people making hating antis their entire personality. I'm sorry that my worrying about people losing their jobs offends you so much but surely you see how generalizing like this does not make you the good guy?

u/RoyalCheesecake8687 • 0 points • 2025-12-19 21:17 UTC

I never claimed to be "the good guy"

You see this is what makes you Antis, this idea that you're somehow morally right because you so care about people loosing their jobs.

People lose their jobs everytime there is major automation

You saying it over and over again doesn't make you a better person lol

u/IHeartBadCode • 0 points • 2025-12-19 16:37 UTC

A reminder to everyone: Even if you're pro AI, don't come HERE and shill a product. This should mostly be debate here. Thinly veiled ads aren't welcomed.

u/mmofrki • 2 points • 2025-12-19 17:08 UTC

I'm not shilling anything lmao. Just naming something isn't shilling. I could say that your username is somehow shilling iheart radio.

u/Banned_Altman • 3 points • 2025-12-19 16:33 UTC

This is an ad.

u/mmofrki • 3 points • 2025-12-19 17:12 UTC

How is mentioning what I used an ad? Do we gotta be generic?

u/Banned_Altman • 2 points • 2025-12-19 17:22 UTC

>How is mentioning what I used an ad? Do we gotta be generic?

I run the NSFW service openerotica.org, but you almost never hear me mention that I'm affiliated with openerotica.org. I usually say I run an NSFW service, without mentioning openerotica.org.

u/mmofrki • 1 points • 2025-12-19 17:40 UTC

if I ran and owned picsart I'd be rich.

u/arch3ion • 6 points • 2025-12-19 16:36 UTC

This is a comment.

u/ZorotheGallade • 4 points • 2025-12-19 16:46 UTC

This is not a pipe.

u/Banned_Altman • 3 points • 2025-12-19 16:59 UTC

These are words

u/SirDarkus • 1 points • 2025-12-19 17:51 UTC

This Is a point 📍 .