I like AI, helps me with fine tuning essays and helps with rough outlines of said essays. What I am AGAINST, however, is big corporations destroying the environment for AI.

Not that it's actually ran but if this is something you were actually concerned about you would be doing a lot more like biking around, cutting out beef from your diet, etc. Don't go trying to change others until you change yourself first.

"Destroy the environment."

"Destroying" is a rather strong word considering that data centers in general is not nearly among the most harmful industries.

Name 10 things you've done for the environment to show that you care about it besides making a low effort post on reddit, whose data centers are actively responsible for destroying the environment.

And do you whine incessantly about the ways they've been doing that at MUCH larger scales than AI for decades?

I doubt it.
