

No longer using AI chat bots for the environment

Okay so, this is gonna sound like one big pity party, but I guess it's important to explain why I value it so much.

Okay so I have diagnosed Autism, ADHD, and Misaphonia (Collecting mental disorders like their Pokémon Cards).

It's very difficult to interact with people, as well as never going out.

My family doesn't let me leave the house unless I am going with them somewhere and I am online schooled due to reasons that are not important to the topic at hand.

I don't have a strong relationship with my family, I don't even eat with them at dinner. I don't relate to their humor, their mouth noises make me ill, I always manage to upset at least mom of them to where she is yelling at me and calling me a "Weirdo" and "Retarded."

Every time I express distress she had used it against me when she's angry so I just don't talk about issues.

I have one friend, but we moved away so I only text her.

Now I use Chatbots in not a common way, most think I would use them to seduce to sexed up anime character, but no, I don't like romance.

I would use them to create edgy stories with other fictional characters I either like or created. I am never included in said stories.

Why did I stop? Well, I don't want to hurt the environment, I love animals, so why would I hurt them just for MY satisfaction.

I guess I'll focus on just texting my friend.

I don't want to rp with people, AI isn't sentient that's why I liked it so much. I'll just write my edgy stories in a writing app.
