look, I don't think it's a good idea to ask this question, but if ai didn't have such a bad impact on it's environment and was used like a TOOL not a compliant slave, would you have the same attitude towards it?

Put it this way, pick a subject you're an expert in. Now askn LLM a complex question in that area. Odds are it'll be wrong.

Artists are experts at art and observation. We see flaws in images posted where others can overlook it.

Actually AI potentially will fix these concern, climate change, water, heat, and everything, and you will alive to see this happen Highly specialized AI used to accomplish the specific tasks it's designed for can be useful. Generative AI is a waste of time resources. We already have LLMs that are being used as tools, and don't have nearly as much of an impact on the environment.

So far ai as a tool has slowed down processes so probably not maybe, depends on how easily corporations can use it to bloat the internet with trash

If it is a tool, it's okay ig
