

People saying that every AI-prompt has a dramatic and direct environmental impact. Is it true?

Posted by u/gulbrunrosa • 0 points • 66 comments

I've heard from so many now that just one prompt to AI equals 10 bottles of water just thrown away. So if i write 10 prompts, thats, lets say 50 liters of water, just for that. Where does this idea come from and are there any sources to this or against this?

Ive heard these datacenters use up water from already suffering countries in for example south-america.

Is AI really bad for the environment and our climate or is that just bullocks and its not any worse than anything else? Such as purchasing a pair of jeans. Or drinking water while excercising.

Comments

u/Outrageous_Issue724 • 1 points • 2026-04-04 14:53 UTC

No it doesn't. One hamburger patty uses 300x more. Lmao

u/BRINNEYYYY • 1 points • 2026-03-03 20:05 UTC

M u/robbie_needs_help • 1 points • 2026-03-03 18:43 UTC

yes it takes only a teaspoon of water a promt, but then think about the thousants and milions of people who write something to ai a minute

u/Narrow_Assignment_60 • 1 points • 2026-02-27 16:57 UTC

Nonsense. [https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=H_c6MWk7PQc&t=1182s]
(https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=H_c6MWk7PQc&t=1182s)

u/meFalloutnerd93 • 1 points • 2026-02-27 12:04 UTC

AI data centers consuming water hasten the incoming of antichrist and a long drought that could last a year and a half..

u/Fit-Ad3276 • 1 points • 2026-02-19 02:45 UTC

10 prompts uses about 500mL, so it's less than you've been told. Most water is used for cooling, around 5 million gallons a day, but modern plants use a different cooling method and use much less. If nothing changes, ai will be responsible for a global water shortage, but with how fast advancements are happening, I don't expect the mass consumption to continue.

u/Careful_Bandicoot673 • 1 points • 2026-02-19 01:25 UTC

I also noticed this and also that the communist movements are way too strong like why am i, a pretty fascist and super racist u.s., having to fight off 4 communist revolutions? Where are they coming from?