

If you say 'AI uses water, AI bad' you might aswell quit social media and tech devices.

Posted by u/Enough_Lawfulness247 • 0 points • 18 comments

MFs will say 'AI uses water, AI bad' while using Reddit on a mobile phone that needed 3190 gallons of water to be made. Each mobile phone needs around 3190 gallons to be made.

No, not using AI doesn't mean you care about the environment.

Comments

u/Informal-Check1375 • 1 points • 2026-02-25 17:37 UTC

I'll never understand people who say that who - have a dog, use makeup, go to fast food places, buy furniture, buy clothes, shop on Amazon, go to Walmart, and much more and have the gull to call people who use a chat bot sometimes "selfish" for "destroying the enviroment"

u/[deleted] • 1 points • 2026-02-24 18:41 UTC

[removed]

u/[deleted] • 1 points • 2026-02-24 18:39 UTC

[removed]

u/NuclearRootBeer • 1 points • 2026-02-24 03:56 UTC

How does social media consume water? And whether you buy a phone or not its still going to be made, one person isn't going to make a big enough impact to reduce production, not to mention if you already have a phone,

u/Enough_Lawfulness247 • 1 points • 2026-02-24 04:01 UTC

Social media consume water through data center cooling and electricity generation.

No, one single person wont make a difference, but millions will u/kohrtoons • 2 points • 2026-02-22 23:37 UTC

AI takes up about 1/3 of the totally datacenter compute. It's a lot but not the whole problem. Also the argument that water is a finite resource gets me. It's not nuclear runoff. It can be evaporated and looped back into the global system, it's not like it's He which just goes into space.

u/NightSVS • -2 points • 2026-02-22 22:15 UTC

Prioritization thing. AI art is seen as worthless and genAI is generally seen as detrimental, so why waste so much water on something gimmicky.

u/A_Very_Horny_Zed • 1 points • 2026-02-24 12:47 UTC

This sub is not for inciting debate. Please move your comment to aiwars for that.

u/Ok_Departure333 • 5 points • 2026-02-22 22:50 UTC

Yeah, and social media is super useful and does not at all have any negatives.

u/NightSVS • -3 points • 2026-02-22 22:56 UTC

I don't think anyone's overlooking that. People probably believe that social media has upsides to it. Social connection being the obvious one, but also entertainment and "information" despite the slippery slope that could slide you down into misinformation hell. On the other hand, they probably don't appreciate AI art at all, so it is a waste of resources. I have no particularly strong opinions on this, if you were wondering why I used "People" and "they".

u/JustA_Simple_User • 4 points • 2026-02-23 05:52 UTC

So helps disabled people live a life they want they may not be able too without AI. How is that wasteful?

u/NightSVS • 0 points • 2026-02-23 06:23 UTC

These aren't my viewpoints, they're popular opinion. I made that clear.

u/A_Very_Horny_Zed • 1 points • 2026-02-24 12:47 UTC

What do you mean "popular opinion"? Pro-AI people outnumber anti-AI people by the millions globally

u/NightSVS • 1 points • 2026-02-24 12:51 UTC

According to what source?

u/A_Very_Horny_Zed

• 1 points •
2026-02-24
12:57 UTC

[https://www.the-bunker.it/en/rubrica/the-world-is-split-in-two-over-ai/]
(https://www.the-bunker.it/en/rubrica/the-world-is-split-in-two-over-ai/)

[https://hai.stanford.edu/ai-index/2025-ai-index-report/public-opinion]
(https://hai.stanford.edu/ai-index/2025-ai-index-report/public-opinion)

u/Reagan • 2 points • 2026-02-22 21:37 UTC

quit eating meats too

u/Enough_Lawfulness247 • 2 points • 2026-02-23 00:09 UTC

No

u/Reagan • 1 points • 2026-02-23 00:23 UTC

no corn either, takes too much water

u/Enough_Lawfulness247 • 1 points • 2026-02-23 00:46 UTC

corn doesnt use water

u/Reagan • 1 points • 2026-02-23 01:02 UTC

it don't sweat neither

u/HebiSnakeHebi • 6 points • 2026-02-22 17:52 UTC

I think a lot of it is just easy karma farming tbh